

Resources: A New Home for Our Insights, Coming Soon

August 17, 2026

Diamond McCarthy is rebuilding its Resources section, and we are glad you found your way here early.

For years, this section has housed the firm's news, publications, and event announcements. We are expanding it into a working library for general counsel, executives, directors, trustees, fiduciaries, investors, and government officials who turn to us when the outcome of a dispute matters most.

What is Coming

Practice insights. Longer form commentary on the issues we see most often in our matters, including complex commercial and contract litigation, fiduciary duty and governance disputes, bankruptcy and creditor litigation, professional liability, and international dispute resolution.

Firm news and recognitions. Case results, lateral additions, appellate outcomes, and industry recognition.

Speaking engagements and publications. Where our lawyers are presenting, what they are publishing, and how to access the materials.

In the Meantime

If you are looking for a specific publication, presentation, or press release that previously appeared here, we are happy to send it to you directly. If you have a matter you would like to discuss, our team is available now.

Please visit our Practices and Our Team pages to learn more about the firm's capabilities, or contact us to speak with a Diamond McCarthy lawyer.

We expect the new Resources section to launch soon. Thank you for your patience, and please check back.
