

Law Students and Associates

Diamond McCarthy recruits the top students and graduates from premier law schools across the U.S. Our standards are higher than most law firms, so if you're at the top of your class, you know you'll be in good company.

Who We're Looking For (And Vice Versa)

We're a little more laid back, irreverent and entrepreneurial than most lawyers, so we may not be what you're looking for. We're not big, we're a boutique. That means much of your training takes place on the job, working on actual cases, for real clients with real issues.

If you want a safe job at a large resume-building institution with lots of formal training programs and little responsibility, we're not your firm. We can, however, recommend some very good big firms, because many of us came from that world.

Who are we looking for? Someone with an entrepreneurial spirit who is smart, willing to take responsibility, and who likes to have fun. Because our work is often very complex, we demand excellent academic credentials. If you attend a top law school and have good grades, give us a call. We may be able to put you to work even while you're in school. If you're a lateral looking to make a change to something a little more exciting, let us know.