

Microfocus

January 12, 2021

The Diamond McCarthy Intellectual Property team is currently representing a multi-billion dollar publicly traded global software and information technology company based in Silicon Valley, California in connection with a number of Breach of license disputes across the United States.