

SECURITIES & REGULATORY

In securities and regulatory litigation, Diamond McCarthy is known for cases involving business insolvencies, merger and proxy disputes, executive compensation and options. Our experience also encompasses a wide range of suits relating to the meltdown of the real estate market, credit default swaps and other mortgage-backed securities.

Our clients include both publicly and privately traded corporations as well as clients in the prosecution and defense of class actions. Diamond McCarthy attorneys prosecute and defend cases in state and federal courts around the country and guide clients through investigations conducted by the SEC and the U.S. Department of Justice. We are efficient, yet thorough, in our approach to investigating allegations of earnings and stock price manipulation, accounting and trading irregularities, and other issues. Even when facing tough opposition, we have maintained a superior track record of obtaining favorable out-of-court settlements for our clients.
