

Additional Support in Implementing CAAR Programs

Each CAAR program will have different needs, objectives, and requirements. Our number one goal is to provide a toolkit of resources to support the Legal department's ability to successfully manage the program autonomously. Often this extends far beyond helping to resolve disputes through dispute resolution and litigation. To support programs in all capacities, Diamond McCarthy has assembled a team comprised of consultants, former in-house counsel, and strategic partners to complement our attorneys' capabilities with a range of service offerings.

Diamond McCarthy's goal is to enable our clients to generate recoveries that mitigate risk and costs while maximizing resources and avoiding distraction. Below are examples of additional support we provide to clients that are implementing a CAAR program:

- Affirmative Recovery training programs with tailored modules to fit a client's needs
- How to think like a plaintiff – claims identification
- Getting buy-in from the top – presentation and communications support to management
- Building a core recoveries team – creating the framework of a self-sufficient program
- Implementation of proven processes to track and report the cost and value of recoveries
- Early case assessments – investigation and reporting
- Intellectual property monetization – developing and implementing a program
- Intellectual property costs – providing options to manage global IP portfolios, cost-effectively
